Post History Given; Initiation To Be Feature

(By Fred H. Kraft)

Lieut. Bert A. Allen Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars No. 2415, of the beach area, will hold a Public Initiation Sunday, Sept. 30 at 8 p. m. at the foot of Newport Ave. and Abbott St. with the degree team of the Connoley Post No. 75 under the direction of County Council Commander Ronald Cooper officiating at the ceremonies. All Veterans of World War No. 1 and No. 2 who are eligible for membership are invited to attend and become members of the leading veterans organization in the United States.

The Lieut. Bert A. Allen Post No. 2415 was chartered March 3, 1932, by Carol D. DeCoe, national commander, with a membership of over 60 veterans of the World War No. 1, and with Fred H. Kraft as their first commander. The Auxiliary was chartered Dec. 8, 1932 with a membership of over 35.

The post was named after the son of Daddy Allen, who formerly lived on Newport Ave. for many years. Lieut. Bert A. Allen was an Ocean Beach boy who served with the Canadian Royal Air Corps in World War No. 1, prior to the entry of the United States in that war, and who was shot down behind the enemy lines while on a combat mission. Lieut. Allen not only established himself in the hearts of his comrades as a courageous soldier and a fearless flier, but also was recognized as such by the German soldiers, who placed a marker at his grave when they buried him with honors, bearing these words, "Here lies a brave and fearless soldier." The members of the post were highly honored to be given permission to use the name of such an outstanding soldier.

Since the Lieut. Bert A. Allen Post has been chartered it has become an important part of the community life of Ocean Beach, its members including many business men of the beach district and other prominent citizens. At the present time it has a membership of over 75 veterans, with Jack McCaffrey as its commander ,and meets every fourth Thursday of the month, at the Ocean Beach Woman's clubhouse.

Street Fair Starts Today

Lieut. Bert A. Allen Post will hold a street fair-festival at the foot of Newport Ave. starting Sept. 28, 29 and 30, to which the public is cordially invited. Comrade Wm. Harris is in charge of the committee and has promised a good time to all who will attend, with a specfal attraction for Saturday night with a stage show that will be put on by the Military Order of "Cooties and

Legion Takes In Four Members At Meeting Sept. 21

Clyde A. Wright Post of the American Legion admitted four new members at the September meeting, held Thursday evening last week at the Woman's clubhouse, reparts Adjutant Earl Yost. The four were John Fitzhugh, John Van Meter, Donald Kennedy and Luther Kampplain. W. L. Brittian, second vice commander, presided in the absence of the commander and the first vice commander.

Speakers were Carl Sherwood, district commander, and Adolph Brodman, district adjutant. Other guests were J. W. Herbst, district second vice commander, and B. K. Burnett of Post 201 of San Diego.

Consideration of the G. I. Bill of Rights featured the discussion.

Dr. Oster Honored

Dr. W. B. Oster of the Sand-Oster Clinic has accepted an invitation to become a member of the teaching staff of the Paradise Valley Nurses' Training School. At the request of Dr. A. R. Stadin, medical director of the Paradise Valley Sanitarium at National City, Dr. Oster will be one of the special lecturers both at the Sanitarium and at the training school.

Freed Prisoner Of Japs Able To Retain $10 Bill

Marine Home After Nearly 4 Years In Prison

A $10 bill and a dime wrapped in so small a package that it escaped all detection by his Jap guards, is one memento brought back from nearly four years of imprisonment, by John Hamas, 49, of 1575 Ocean Front Blvd., a warrant officer in the Marines. He arrived home Sunday.

Hamas was taken prisoner on Wake Island in December 1941 and feels that he was fortunate to have been in a Shanghai prison during most of that time rather than in some of the other Jap prison camps where the Americans received really rough treatment.

He made the trip home in about 10 days by Navy transport and was on the same plane as Lieut. Col. Devereau Wake Island commander, from Hokkaido, Japan to Oakland, Calif. Hamas flew from Oakland and landed at North Island field Sunday night, where his wife greeted him after more than four long years.

Hamas shipped out in August 1941 and from Honolulu landed at Wake Island in October 1941. Not until September 1942 was Mrs. Hamas able to hear from her husband after he was taken prisoner, but after that and during his long period of imprisonment in Shanghai she was fortunate to receive eight cards and four letters from him.

He lost 50 pounds while in prison, reducing from his regular weight of 205 to about 150. He also, like many others, had a tussle with beri-beri, though in light form, and with pelagra. Since coming home he has been making daily trips to the Navy hospital here for physical check-ups.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamas have been residents of Ocean Beach since 1939, coming here from Washington D. C. His duty in the east was at the Marine Corps base at Quantico, Va. He has been with the Marines for more than 20 years.

High School Girls To Hold Court On Regulation Dress

First Girls' League "Court" on regulation dress will be held Wednesday, October 3, in the library at 3 p. m., announces Lou Stelle Myers, president of the Girls' Activities at Point Loma high school. At this time girls who have not conformed to the regulation dress at Point Loma will be tried in the girls' court. Priscilla Welch is court judge with a jury made up of two representatives from the three classified groups: Ivy Wilson and Joan Jefferson, 10th grade; Suzanne Kelly and Isabell Viegas, 11th grade; Mariann Bach and Ann Rutledge, 12th grade. Other members of the governing group of the league include Nancy Crawford, vice-president, Mary Ellen Curry secretary and Ann Peckham treasurer. Within a few days the girls' league will have formulated projects for the entire semester.

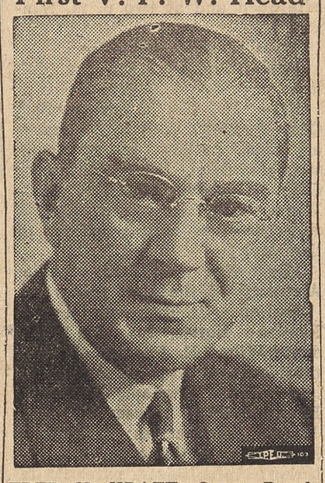
"The Pointer" Drive Ends

Subscription drive for "The Pointer," Point Loma's all-American honor newspaper closes today. Dick Chadwick, chairman of the drive anticipates a large subscription list of students since the entire school enjoys its news. Doris Dippollett is editor-in-chief for this year. Miss Margaret McLellan, journalism instructor, is faculty adviser to the staff.

Student Soloist Honored

Many clubs and organizations avail themselves of the opportunity to have talented students present programs. First appearance for this fall was made by Lee Carolyn Henderson, soprano soloist with Peggy O'Neal, accompanist at the Ocean Beach Woman's club, September 13.

First V. F. W. Head



FRED H. KRAFT, Ocean Beach

Mr. Kraft was the first commander of Lieut. Bert A. Allen Post 2415, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and has been active in the Post ever since it was instituted, March 3, 1932. He will speak at the Saturday evening program of the Post's street fair and festival which opens a 3-day show at the foot of Newport Ave. this (Friday) afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Firemen Have 3 Hour Battle With Brush Fire Here

A two-alarm brush fire of unknown origin Sunday burned overy 30 acres of the steep slope of Sunset Cliffs between the old Theosophical Society buildings and the ocean, for a time threatening the former buildings of the Society. Three fire companies responded on the first alarm, of which the Ocean Beach crew was one, and three more companies from the city on the second alarm. Volunteer fire fighters from Azure Vista, also soldiers from Ft. Rosecrans joined the force battling the blaze. The battle lasted three hours and not until around 4 o'clock was the fire finally brought under control.

Firemen from the Ocean Beach station taking part in the battle were Lieut. Philip Langworthy, Engineer Lee Plaisted, Hoseman Robert Palmer and Lieut. Wm. Hillman.

The fire started near the ocean and fanned by a rather stiff breeze swept up through the brush in the canyons. Main damage was the destruction of an unoccupied shack and some damage to trees.

The firemen had to make a second trip to the area Monday to extinguish more flames that flared up there since the fire of the previous day.

This is reported to have been the first brush fire in this area for many years.

PETITION CIRCULATED TO RETAIN REV. HARRIS AT EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Business men of Ocean Beach, when called on this week, unanimously signed a petition to Bishop Stevens of Los Angeles, asking that Rev. Philip Harris be retained here as vicar of Trinity Episcopal church. He had announced last week that he was leaving the local pastorate around October 1. The petition states that "we feel Rev. Harris has been an asset to our community and we hope because of this fact that he will be retained as vicar of Trinity church here."

Farewell Dinner Planned

A farewell dinner in honor of Rev. Harris will be held at Trinity church Sunday evening, at 6:30, The News is asked to announce. Non-members of the church as well as members are invited, and reservations can be made by phoning B-4357 or B-6814.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Paulin have sold their home at 4604 Tivoli St. and plan to leave this week for Los Angeles to go into the radio business. Mr. Paulin is now a civilian, having recently been released from the Navy. His wife, who has been recording secretary of the Woman's club, also was active on the P.T.A. board and was a "Brownie" girls leader. Mr. and Mrs. Paulin have two daughters.

Orren Louden, head of the Village School of Art, has been named a member of the Cultural Advancement committee of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce by President Albert Reader of that civic body.

Gates At Stadium Will Open At 6:30 For Grid Carnival

Tentative Lineup of Pointers Eleven Announced

Point Loma high school's arrangements for the big San Diego high school football carnival of four games to be played under the floodlights of Balboa Stadium this (Friday) evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock, have been completed and one of the largest crowds in the history of high school football in this city is expected to attend. Some estimates on the attendance are as high as 20,000.

Lucien C. Atherton, the Pointers faculty athletic sponsor, who is assisting Vice Principal Robert D. Williams in charge of the arrangements, announces that the gates to the stadium will be open at 6:30 p. m. "and that we will have plenty of help and open gates. We hope to avoid the unpleasant situation of last year."

Coach Announces Lineup

Coach Herb. Ward Wednesday announced his tentative lineup for the 15-minute, second quarter game, that the Pointers will play against La Jolla as follows:

Of the tentative first team, as announced, three are lettermen from last year's squad, being Young, Fernandes and Crum; and two in the second group, Chasey and Hiltz, also are lettermen from last year.

The Pointers will clash with the strong and more experienced La Jolla club. A preliminary practice scrimmage held at La Jolla last Thusday, however, convinced Coach Ward that his team is going to give the La Jollans plenty of trouble tonight in the stadium. Ward took nearly 80 players along with him for the La Jolla tryout.

Another scrimmage was held on the local field Tuesday night which also helped materially, he says, to toughen the boys up for tonight's grid battle. He reports all his regulars in good shape.

MR. AND MRS. ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT CALLED HERE BY MRS. YOUNG'S ILLNESS

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt were called here from Beverly Hills one day ast week by the illness of the latter's mother, Mrs. J. C. Young of Ocean Beach. Mrs. Young has been ill for about three weeks and is taking treatment at Paradise Valley hospital.

Election Kiwanis Officers Set For Tuesday, Oct. 9th

Election of officers for the ensuing term of the Kiwanis club has been set for Tuesday evening, October 9, President Jerry Sullivan announced at the meeting of this week, held Tuesday at the Woman's clubhouse. He also announced that at next week's meeting, October 2, Mrs. Belle Benchley, director of the San Diego Zoo, will be the speaker, and that Kiwani-Annes as well as Kiwanis members are invited to this meeting. The hour is 6:30 p. m.

John O. "Jack" Stevenson of the Stevenson Bros. Ocean Beach Garage was admitted to membership in the club. He was introduced by Glenn Jones and the induction ceremonies for him were carried out by Milt Lancaster, a past president of the club.

President Sullivan also announced a golf tournament for the members will be held at the Chula Vista Country club course Sunday, Sept. 30. The members planning to play are asked to be at Rosecrans and Harbor Dr. intersection at 8 a. m., where the arrangements for car transportation of the players will be completed. At last reports from Martin Murphy, chairman of arrangements, at least 17 of the members plan to take part.

An impromptu, also humorous, program took up the remainder of the meeting, in which Dan Moss presided as "Emcee" and called on the members for their best stories.

Ocean Beach to Ask Council For Survey

"Victory Chest" Campaign To Open In Coming Week

Headquarters Trying To Get Workers In Ocean Beach

San Diego county's 1945 Victory Chest campaign to raise $926,466 for the indispensible health and welfare services rendered by 68 agencies will open Tuesday night, October 2, with a kick-off meeting at 7:30 at the San Diego Army & Navy YMCA. The rally will be held in Davidson hall and all Ocean Beach volunteers are urged to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Genevieve Schnabel, executive secretary from the downtown headquarters was out in Ocean Beach Wednesday seeking to line up the necessary workers to carry on the Ocean Beach part of the campaign.

Mrs. Frank W. Sloan of Rosecrans St., who is the area chairman for the Point Loma area that includes Ocean Beach, informed The News Thursday that Mrs. L. R. Lyman had been obtained for captain of Section 5 between Santa Barbara Ave. and Chatsworth and Mrs. G. G. Wetherill as captain for Section 5 between Voltaire St. and Mission Bay. Mrs. Sloan stated that the plan is to complete the organization of workers for Ocean Beach this week if possible and to finish the drive in October be-

Marvin L. Lloyd AOM 3/c of Ocean Beach evidently is on patrol duty on the ship, "Nehenta Bay," off the coast of Japan, judging from a letter he wrote to his wife, Mrs. Betty May Lloyd, 4612 Bermuda Ave. Sept. 9, which, she received this week. As an aerial gunner on a Navy plane, Lloyd took part in the battles of Leyte Gulf, Okinawa and Eniwetok Islands. He shipped to the Pacific theatre of the war in Jan. 1945, following a visit home, during which period he was married to Betty May Thornley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thornley of 4612 Bermuda Ave. A Point Loma high school graduate, Lloyd has been in the service 2½ years and had duty in both the Atlantic and the Mediterranean areas before coming home last November.

Mayor Pledges Help For Completing Fishing Pier

Steps are being taken by the Ocean Beach Chamber of Commerce looking toward city administration help in planning the overall improvements being considered by the postwar committee of the local organization. As result of a conference held Monday afternoon at Civic center by the committee with City Planning Director Glen Rick, assurance was received from him of help from the city in outlining the various parts of the civic improvements contemplated. In fact, Rick seemed to be of the opinion that the $12,000 appropriation being asked for the city planning commission with which to study and analize major improvements in various communities of the city can also be used in part to cover the proposed city survey for Ocean Beach.

Rick asked that the committee make formal request of the city for survey of the various main items of the proposed Ocean Beach improvements, following which President J. R. Lownes of the Chamber of Commerce prepared such a list and same is being turned over to the city council.

Chamber of Commerce directors in session here Tuesday evening favored the steps being taken and heard a report of the postwar planning committee given by Al Hunt, in which he reported on the conference, particularly as regards to proposed shore line improvements and proposed changes in zoning of the local business district.

Following a report of the Inter-club committee by Chairman Milt Lancaster, the directors decided to join with other Beach area Chambers of Commerce in asking the Eleventh Naval district to discontinue the anti-aircraft target practice at Pacific Beach now that the war is over. On request of the chairman suggestions were given him on other matters such as the Mission Bay project and beach improvement, on which the various Beach civic groups can work together.

Hear About Pier From Mayor

Secretary Forest Whedon read the following letter from Mayor Harley Knox, dated September 12, regarding status of the city's efforts to see that the fishing pier at the foot of Del Monte Ave. is completed:

"This is to thank you for your letter of August 31 with reference to the city's plans for a fishing pier at Ocean Beach. This matter was taken up by the city council this morning in conference and the position of the Harbor department was presented to them.

"It is the opinion of the Harbor department that the pier should be built at the earliest opportunity; however, other demands upon their funds make it extremely unlikely that in the early future this pier can be constructed with Harbor department funds.

"The matter was continued in conference. However, it was the opinion today, that the city should by all means construct this fishing pier at the earliest practical time. The general opinion is that while there is no money in this year's budget for the actual construction of this pier, that there is sufficient money in the capital outlay fund that might be provided under a

Open Safety Pin Lodges In Throat

An open safety pin lodged in the throat of David, 9 months old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Yost, Monday evening and was removed after about a half hour's operation by a specialist in Mercy hospital, reports the father. The parents brought David home the same night, but the fever failing to go down, they took the little lad back to the hospital Tuesday afternoon for further treatment by penacillin.

The pin had lodged in the esophagus of the throat. Mr. and Mrs. Yost live at 2087 Bacon St.

CHAPTER XXII: Another "probable" for Scott. Lt. Daniels is wounded and Maj. Bruce Holloway is shot down, but crash-lands in a rice paddy.

I never did go out and look at the old engine that had come out of my first fighter. After all, an engine is exchangeable anyway, and we get used to different ones. The shot-up shell of the fuselage, and the wing that had held me up over a hundred thousand miles of enemy country, I didn't want to see again. I just thought of my six fifty-caliber guns flying with me in my new fighter as the real soul of "Old Exterminator." And I thought of the hundreds of parts from Air Corps number 41-1456 that were helping to keep eighteen ships of our Group in the air to fight the Japs.

For the men of the Group, the cannibalized ship had been a help, but to me it had been a tradition to keep. In my mind, no matter how long I myself might be fighting in China, "Old Exterminator" would be on all those flights—some of it would be on every mission that we flew. And thus it would fly forever.

On September 25, Maj. Ed Rector led the assault of a flight down to raid Hanoi in Indo-China. I led the support, and we kept a thousand feet above the first echelon. Our mission was to escort ten bombers for the bombardment of Gia Lam airdrome. We went South and "topped-off" our gas load at a secret base, then routed our flight to the West of Laokay to keep from alerting the Jap warning net. Until we were close to Hanoi, we kept well West of the railroad that led to our objective.

Even with these precautions to keep from alerting the enemy, we found the Japanese I-45's in the air and over the field as we came in from the West. The twin-engine fighters absolutely ignored our fighters and made runs on the bombers, but they didn't get very far with their orders. Rector took the first four P-40's in on the leading Japs and hit them five hundred yards behind our bombers, who were already dropping their eggs. I saw two of Ed's flight gang-up on the first steeply climbing I-45, but before they could shoot it down Daniels went in fast to within a few yards of the Jap and shot him down in flames. As the ship exploded I thought Pat Daniels' plane was on fire too, they were so close. We all confirmed the first ship for the eager Daniels, who was from Van Nuys, California.

There were thirteen I-45's in the air over Gia Lam that afternoon, and for the next few seconds, as they tried desperately to get to the bombers, our hands were full. We had ten fighters, and we felt that we outnumbered them many times—considering the way we usually had to fight.

The bombers were on the way home now, and we sighed with relief and tried to catch the Japs. Ed Rector took the next ship he got his sights on and blew it apart. Then he fought all the way to the ground with two others. Marks shot down one, and the others were about equally divided.

I caught a flight of three I-45's going hell-bent for the bombers from below and to the rear, and shot the last one in the formation down with a short burst. It was point-blank range and occurred very fast. I first saw a thin trail of gray smoke that looked like the usual condensation cloud that forms behind the wings of fighter ships doing maneuvers at high altitude, when the atmospheric conditions are just right. And then flame poured from the right engine. It spread up over the cockpit and stretched thirty feet back in the slipstream. I moved up towards the second enemy fighter and didn't see the flamer go down.

A Classified Adv. In The News Will Dispose of Your Surplus Property

CHAPTER XXII

With my first burst the next ship rolled over and dove, with one engine shot-up. By now I had caught up to the lead I-45, who was shooting at the bombers from exceedingly long range. I methodically aimed for his engines, putting a short burst into one and then into the other. The Jap must have felt the fire, for he went into a steep, climbing turn—which incidentally is very good if you have a ship that will outclimb your opponent. I thought this climbing turn might be a trick; so I watched closely for him to turn on me. But when he rolled over he dove not for me but for the clouds. I kept going after him and must have put two hundred shots into him before he got out of my sight in the cumulus cloud. Pieces had begun to come from his fuselage, and smoke was trailing behind. I believe his engines were hit and were failing, for the props seemed to be "windmilling." And yet I could only claim it as a "probable," for I didn't see it catch fire or crash.

We got all our bombers back, of course, and the pictures showed very good results for the bombing of Gia Lam field. We claimed nine of the thirteen enemy fighters definitely destroyed, and we hadn't even gotten a hole in one of our P-40's. In our opinion the new I-45 had turned out to be a flop for the Jap. Either it was not all they expected or the pilots didn't know how to use the fast-climbing ship. Sometimes I noticed that when I got on the tail of one, instead of climbing away from me—and he could easily have climbed away from a P-40—he tried to dive away from me, which is definitely a very poor thing to try with your opponent in a fast-diving Kittyhawk.

A short time after the Hanoi fight, we captured a French pilot, a Captain Penard, who had landed at Mengtze, just across the Indo-Chinese border. Though our questioning of him failed to yield much strategic information, we did get confirmation for the day's work of September 25th. He claimed to have observed the fight, and from his description his claim sounded probable. He said either nine or eleven enemy planes had been shot down, and as we of course knew, no American ships. Strangely enough, he told us of the way the Japanese surrounded the wrecks of their fighters and would not let the natives see them. He observed that they hastily painted out the rising-sun insignia of Japan and replaced it with the white star of the American Air Force. These trophies were then paraded through the country to impress the population with Japanese invincibility.

A poor way to have to impress conquered people, we thought. General Chennault said he'd furnish all the ships they wanted for that purpose. As far as we were concerned, the Japs could gather up all the Zeros and I-45's they wanted after we shot them down, and change the spots on them. We'd do all we could to help.

Just as the General had been expecting, heavy movement began in late September along the Burma Road, from Lashio North towards Lungling. The Japs were seen by our observation to be moving many trucks filled with troops. They were evidently going to renew the attempt to cross the Salween that the AVG had frustrated back in May.

Bruce Holloway and I caught these trucks the first day and burned twelve of them near Wanting. On the next afternoon, I got through the rain with a single fighter and caught four of them on a curve in the road at Chefang. From then on for six days, until the end of September, we harassed every movement on the wet and muddy road. Twelve of us burned ninety-six heavy trucks in six days. We used fragmentation bombs as well as the fifties. When we couldn't find their trucks, we'd hit the dark green troop barracks they were constructing from Lungling to Lashio.

One day Daniels dove on a truck column to find that the Japs had placed light tanks along with the truck convoy. When Daniels, who was an offensive-minded fighter anyway, saw the tanks he forgot about the trucks and concentrated on the more formidable vehicles. His Fifties tore two tanks rather badly, and his frag bombs knocked two more from the road, but he was wounded by the heavy fire from the tanks.

Lieutenant Welborn, his wing man, saw the tracers from the ground firing at his leader's ship and went to the aid of Pat Daniels. But the damage had been done. One bullet had come up through the side panel of Daniels' P-40 and had struck him in the shoulder. The wound was very bloody, and the shock had just about paralyzed the pilot's arm. Nevertheless, Cocky Daniels flew the ship back three hundred miles to Kunming and landed it there with his left hand.

On these same flights against the trucks, Bruce Holloway was shot down. All of us learned rapidly that this ground-strafing was tough business and not conducive to long life. Just about every ship on the strafing missions would be riddled with small holes from the constant ground-fire.

Maj. Bruce Holloway, the Group Executive, had been leading several fighters on the truck columns near Chefang. As he pulled from one diving attack he felt something strike his ship. At first he didn't notice it and continued to strafe from just about tree-top altitude. Then his coolant light popped on. Bruce turned immediately towards the friendly Chinese lines, which were nearly twenty miles away. He must have known immediately that the enemy bullet had punctured his prestone tank (the coolant of the American liquid-cooled engine). He had a very few minutes to stay in the air before the engine would catch fire or "freeze."

He must be getting closer to the river, he knew, for he was indicating over two hundred miles an hour, but in his anxiety it seemed to go farther away. With almost his last gasp he crossed the river into friendly Chinese country and crash-landed in one of the ever-present rice paddies.

Now begins Bruce's trip back from the interior of China to our base at Kunming. It's almost a saga, for Holloway was feted, wined and dined in the primitive fashion of the remote village people, who were tribesmen called "Miaows." Though Bruce was only fifty minutes by plane from Kunming, his mode of travel by sedan chair, donkey and water buffalo required three weeks. From the moment he rode into headquarters on the last buffalo he had hired, he became known as the "Lochinvar of the Salween."

Later Lieutenant Welborn was shot down farther to the South. Welborn had gotten out of his burning plane two hundred miles South of Paoshan, and his trip out of the rough country was the longest of any man that was lost. I remember that when he reached the first village from which he could get word to us, he sent a message that at first sounds facetious, until you understand the conditions under which one travels in the interior of China; then you realize that he was conservative. His message read: "Landed safely such and such a sector. My motto is Kunming by Christmas."

Gen. Caleb Haynes, who went to China to head General Chennault's bombers.

It was then September, and Welborn beat his original estimate. He required fifty-four days to travel two hundred miles across the trails of southwestern Yunnan.

Our truck-strafing caused us to lose several planes and two pilots, but we cost the Japs lots of material. Towards the first of October, there were skeletons of enemy trucks and tanks from the Salween to Kutkai, near Lashio. The Jap may have moved a few at night, but not many after Morgan and Bayse got through bombing the bridges on the Burma Road. We caught a few Jap planes near Lashio and shot up several on the ground. I shot into a Zero there on October 5, and believe it went down, but only claimed it as a "probable."

The Japs kept coming towards Kunming from Indo-China nearly every day in early October, but I think they remembered that the last time they had been in the capital of Yunnan, they had lost all their ships to the AVG. Way back on Christmas Day, 1941.

Even with the hardships that a rugged country like China imposed, I was living a wonderful life there in Kunming. Those were days that I would never forget—not only for the adventure that I was sharing with the other fighters in the Group, but for the great privilege of living with my boss, General Chennault.

Gen. Caleb Haynes, Doctor Gentry, and I lived together with the General in a house the "Gissimo" had built for him. Situated near the field at Kunming, it was a modern home, or as modern as a bungalow could be in Yunnan. With a private room for each of us, with the Chinese houseboys the General had collected in his six years in China, we lived a wonderful life in a war-torn land.

There was "Wong Chauffeur" who drove the General's car. Wong had a little boy—of course called "Little Wong"—who was suspicious of foreign devils and who used to cover his face with his hands when I spoke to him. The General told me that as far as he had been able to find out from a long time in China, we'd always be foreign to the Chinese. For, after all, the only word in China that could mean a person other than a Chinese was "foreign devil."

The General told me about an automobile trip he had made with Major Shu down the road from Chihkiang to Kweyang. This was bandit country, through the wilds of Kweyang province. Arriving at Kweyang, the capital, they had found an ancient walled city. The General, as a trusted servant of the Gissimo, had been taken to the Governor's house, and there dinner was served.

All through the meal General Chennault noticed that strangers whom he did not meet would come in singly, sit down at the other end of the table, and after watching his every movement for a minute, would leave. Then another would come in and take the seat. After this had gone on during the entire meal, the General finally turned to Major Shu and asked what was going on—what all these staring people meant? Major Shu replied that here in Kweyang the people had never seen a foreign devil, and the Governor had given them permission to come in and look at one.

General Chennault's other houseboys were "Wang Cook," who had been on the US Gunboat Panay, and "Gunboat," who had served in the American Navy for three years.

The General used to take me hunting with him, and I came to understand that throughout these hunting trips he was giving me lessons in tactics, lessons he had learned the hard way against the Japanese. Without my knowing it, he would, in effect, criticize my method of former attacks and advise me about better ways to do the job. I used to listen to him for hours as he told of cases in which he had got his own ship shot up by going in too close, and then, after he learned how and knew that his longer range fifty-calibre guns would out-shoot the Jap, had accomplished the same destruction on the enemy without getting his own ship shot to pieces. These critiques taught me exactly what he meant to impart without his ever hurting my pride by telling make work program by the Federal government or the State of California. In this way we stand ready, at least, to take advantage of any opportunity that comes along to build this pier at an early date and with reasonable economy.

"May I assure that if nothing is done in the meantime, next spring when the 1946 budget is under consideration that I will do my best to have included in the budget enough money to at least extend the pier several hundred feet. The council is thoroughly aware of the need for this facility and there is no disagreement over the fact that we must do it at the earliest possible time."

Phone Company Starts Delivery New Directories

Delivery of the new San Diego telephone directory begins this week and should be completed within a reasonable length of time, announces A. V. Engel, district manager of the Southern California Telephone company.

Feature of the new directory is that the suburban communities of Chula Vista, Coronado, El Cajon, La Jolla, La Mesa, National City, and Pacific Beach will be listed in one general alphabetical index along with San Diego. The listings for these towns, however, will still include the name of the city and the local prefixes.

Calling upon all available manpower to deliver the new directories in the shortest possible time, distributors of the new book will hire the extra services of students, Boy Scout groups and housewives to aid in the job of distributing more than 75,000 to the homes of San Diego telephone subscribers.

That telephone users return old directories at the time of delivery of the new books is requested by Mr. Engel. The old books are processed and help materially in relieving the present serious paper shortage.

Alverson Plays Unusual Role In War Against Japs

WASHINGTON—It can now be revealed that D. L. Alverson, radioman, first class, 1656 Guizot St., Ocean Beach, Calif., played a role in one of the most romantic and dangerous episodes of the war against Japan—as a member of a Naval group of guerrillas, intelligence agents and weather observers behind the Japanese lines in Asia.

The group, now known as SACO—Sino-American Co-operative Organization—began shortly after Pearl Harbor as strictly a weather reporting unit.

The project grew until it was providing the U. S. Fleet, the Army's 14th Air Force and the Chinese and American Army headquarters with weather reports and with intelligence on movement of Jap ships, troops and supplies. Finally, it became a dangerous fighting outfit, killing Japs, blowing up trains, raiding Jap outposts. Its activities finally extended all the way from Indo-China to the Gobi Desert.

SACO intelligence allowed the 14th Air Force to mine coastal waters, forcing Jap shipping out to sea, where they were attacked by American submarines, on information from SACO.

Weather information helped the Navy decide when to stage invasions on Jap islands and raids on the Jap homeland.

Usually it was possible to enter or depart from Jap territory by air, but SACO Americans became adept at Chinese disguises and, guided by SACO Chinese, slipped through enemy lines when they chose. Through months and years not one SACO member was detected.

Christian Science Lesson Text 'Reality'

"Reality" will be the subject of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text is from Lamentations: "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation."

A Bible citation includes this passage from Luke, "Behold a man full of leprosy: who seeing Jesus fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean. And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him. . . . and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities. And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed."

Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," "One disease is no more real than another. All disease is the result of education, and disease can carry its ill-effects no farther than mortal mind maps out the way. The human mind, not matter, is supposed to feel, suffer, enjoy. . . . Truth handles the most malignant contagion with perfect assurance."

Rodney E. Maurer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Maurer of 4561 Cape May Ave., Ocean Beach, has been promoted to the grade of sergeant at Hamilton Field, one of the Fourth Air Force's Army Air Bases, it was announced recently. Sgt. Maurer joined the Army on December 6. 1943 and has been stationed at Hamilton Field for eight months.

FORT KNOX, Ky. Sept. 20—Second Lieut. John T. Stanley, 4664 Green St., Ocean Beach, Calif. has been placed on terminal leave at this post. At the end of this leave he will revert to an inactive status in the Army of the United States.

Word has come to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Plant of Ocean Beach that their son, Pfc. W. O. Plant of the Fourth Marine division, is in a hospital in the Hawaiian Islands, undergoing treatment for hernia. He had been sent there from the West Pacific, where he had been in the combat zone for several months.

— V —

LeRoy Redburn, chief commissary steward, has arrived home on 60-day leave after 4½ years. He was on duty with the Navy the last 15 months on a destroyer at Midway Island in the Pacific and previously for eight months in the Aleutian Islands. For nearly three years his Navy duty was in Cuban waters and in Cuba. Redburn and his wife and son now live in Spring Valley, having recently moved from 4852 Narragansett Ave. While at Midway Island he had the honor of being president of the Square and Compass club of the Masonic lodge.

SUNDOWN AT OCEAN BEACH
(By Lewis G. Spooner)

Beside the whispering sea I pause to dream
At even-tide. To revel in the West,
Where, wrapp'd in quietness I muse and rest.
The sun displays his old-time farewell beam.
The new-born crescent shines in modest gleam.
The graceful sea gulls circle over head.
A pair of mallards seek their marshy bed.
So swift and straight they fly—a tandem team.

The anthems of the sea roll on and rise
Until their music floods the farthest skies.
So rests the sun, where sky and water meet.
Gray shadows from the Northland dim the light.
The nymphs of Neptune do a love-dance sweet,
While angels lock the door-ways of the night.

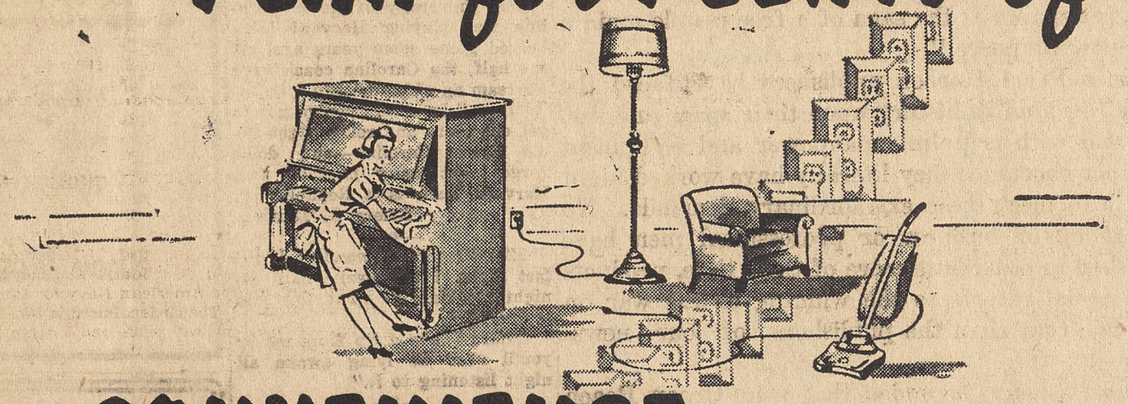
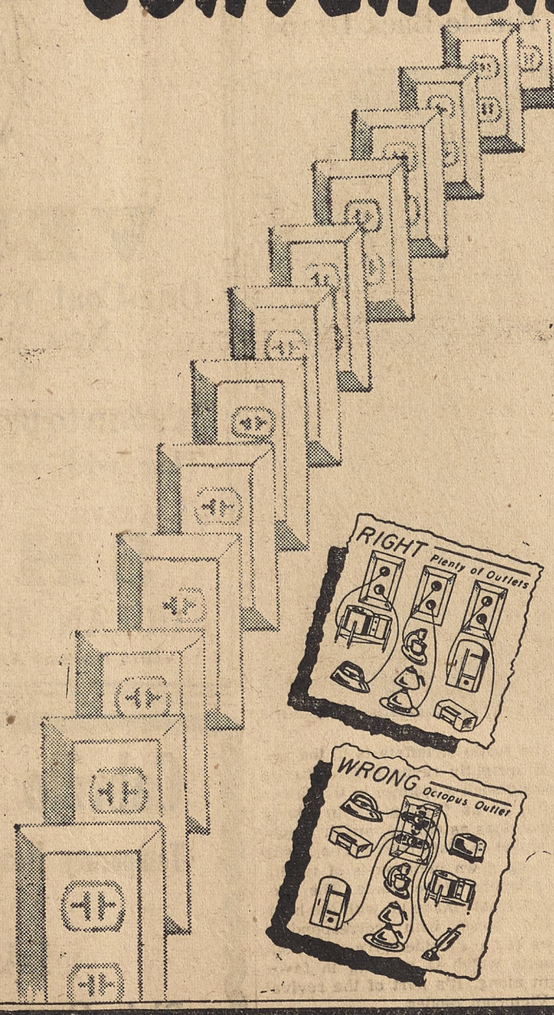
Next time we'll PLAN for PLENTY of CONVENIENCE OUTLETS





SUCH is the uppermost thought in the minds of most everyone who is planning on building a new home or remodeling the one in which he lives. Convenience outlets are what the name implies — "CONVENIENT" — and measured by the years of service each convenience outlet will give, they're about the most inexpensive item on any list of "what we want most" in our home of tomorrow.

Don't think for a moment the above illustration is exaggerated. A survey just completed, among San Diego homekeepers, showed that a large majority of people interviewed on the subject gave as their reason for wanting more convenience outlets the fact that they now have to move furniture or exchange appliances in their everyday use of electrical service.

But that isn't all we found out from San Diego housewives. We learned that over 70 percent knew what caused a fuse to "blow". They said it was an overloaded circuit probably caused by one or more "octopus" outlets — AND THEY WERE RIGHT!

That's why they ALL say, "Next time we'll plan for PLENTY of convenience outlets."

BEACH, CLEANEST IN YEARS

After a period of several years during which Ocean Beach could be anything but proud of the looks and comfort of its beaches this season there has been a marked improvement and the lion's share of the credit belongs to City Manager Fred A. Rhodes who has taken a particular interest and pride in the efficient way in which the kelp and other debris have been cleaned from the ocean shore. At least once a week, the city manager has arranged to have the debris removed, for the benefit of both the water and the sun bathers as well as for others who visit the beaches for beach parties or just to see the waves of the blue Pacific roll in.

Lifeguard Lou Fleetwood and his helpers, who have been a large group of youngsters, also are entitled to honorable mention for the splendid assistance they rendered in picking up broken bottles and other debris.

Now that the good work has been started this year, Ocean Beach folks say "let's keep the ball a rolling" and urge the city administration to bring pressure to bear on the property owners affected to eliminate the unsanitary, dangerous and unsightly pond of stagnant water existing at the foot of Cape May Ave. where one child was drowned last year.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK

National Newspaper week, scheduled for next week, starting Monday, places the spotlight of a part of newspaper publicity on the newspapers themselves, and particularly on the newspaper as a community asset, as well being the "voice, the eyes and the ears of a nation," and the C. N. P. A. adds that "your newspaper is the saga of a free people amid a world now at peace."

Since Pearl Harbor publishers have faced the greatest demand in history upon their space and services, and with crippling manpower and equipment and paper shortages they literally have worked night and day to meet these extraordinary demands. No other group of business or professional men have been asked to contribute more of their time, products and personal efforts to the winning of the war on the home front than the publishers of our newspapers

And it should be added that your Ocean Beach News though not "The largest Newspaper in the World," yet is the only newspaper on earth that is primarily, and first and foremost, interested in and working for Ocean Beach and its people first, last and all the time.

My Wage

I bargained with Life for a penny,
And Life would pay no more,
However I begged at evening
When I counted my scanty store

I worked for a menial's hire,
Only to learn, dismayed,
That any wage I had asked of Life
Life would have paid.

Ocean Beach Camp & Hospital

By ONA E. PITCOCK
Phone B-5639

Camp and Hospital was delighted with all the nice things we sent in last week.

We had cakes, cookies, games, books and Christmas tree decorations. Mrs. Ella Cole donated a beautiful crocheted afgan which went to our paralized boy.

Miss Nye tells me they need small games such as checkers, chess, rook, rummy, cribbage and all small games. These are put into the comfort bags now being given to the boys going overseas for the Army of Occupation. We cannot have too many decks of playing cards and small card games.

Fishing tackle is badly needed. Please donate all you can. There is nothing that relaxes the boys up at Camp Lockett and those lake resorts like fishing.

Don't forget to bake a cake or some cookies for Wednesdays and we will pick them up if you cannot bring them.

We still need help in Christmas tree decorations and don't forget we need small bedside radios for bed patients.

"Victory Chest"

fore the end of the month if possible.

The campaign, according to Allan S. Klauber, chairman, is an over-all one, aimed at rounding up in one great drive all funds needed for the year to maintain essential services of 35 Community Chest agencies, the county's share in the National War Fund, the several servicemen's and veteran's units, and chest agencies in eight county cities.

"This," said Klauber, "is the year that counts. We have won the victory, but we now must win the peace." He referred specifically to the U.S.O. programs, both locally and overseas, which the military has asked to be quadrupled to maintain morale of military forces now on occupation duty in Europe and the Pacific.

More than half of the total to be raised, $501,681, will be used for the 35 agencies of the Community Chest. For its share in the National War Fund, the county will donate $301,677. Over 61 percent of this will go to relief services for armed forces. The balance will go for other Pacific and European relief.

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Ramage Wedded 57 Years on Sept. 19

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Ramage of 4493 Montalvo St. had a small family reunion on Wednesday, September 19 in observance of the 57th anniversary of their marriage, with most of their family of five sons and three daughters present.

Mrs. Ramage stated Wednesday, however, that they plan a real celebration when their son Lee of Ocean Beach, a former heavy and light weight boxing champion of California, gets home early in October from his duty with the Navy. He is a chief boatswain's mate and has been in the Navy four years. He has been in the Pacific theatre and his duty has been as athletic instructor.

The other four sons are Nathan, William, Cyrus, and Ray, all of San Diego; and the three daughters are Mrs. Rachel Wood of near Julian, Mrs. Carrie Van Syckel of San Diego and Mrs. Goldie Nadon of Oceanside. They have nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramage were married at Kearney, Nebr. in 1888 and came west to San Luis Obispo, Calif. in 1900. In 1913 they came to San Diego and to Ocean Beach five years ago. Mr. Ramage, who is actively engaged in the real estate business, is nearly 78 and his wife is 76.

Junior Woman's Club Aids Drive For Child Care

The newly formed Ocean Beach Junior Woman's club is cooperating in the effort being put forth by a number of interested Ocean Beach mothers of children who hope that a Child Care center can again be established at the Ocean Beach Elementary school, reports Mrs. Warren Fox, president of the club. "We are having slips sent home by the children at the school in a survey to determine how many mothers there are who wish the child care for their children. Not until we obtain the results of this survey will we be able to decide whether our club will make a project out of this campaign," Mrs. Fox stated.

In the meantime, the club has made arrangements for the temporary care of a half dozen of the children.

The local Child Care center was discontinued as of Sept. 8.

As far as federal aid is concerned, that seems to be out unless sufficient pressure is brought to bear on Congress now that the war is over and the war emergency Lanham Act funds have been withdrawn. Miss Vesta Petersen, principal of the local school, and also a charter member of the new young woman's group, provides for publication in The News this week the following explanatory statement on the discontinuance of the Child Care center here:

"The program of Child Care centers will be discontinued throughout the country as of October 27. Funds for the operation of these centers has been obtained from the Lanham Act which has ear-marked a fund of money for community problems resulting from the war. As there is no longer a need for workers in the war industry, these funds have been withdrawn.

"Pressure is being used to continue the program of child care centers for widows and wives of men still in the service. State aid is being requested for the balance of people involved.

"The Child Care centers in San Diego were operated by the Board of Education under the direction of Walter Tatum. The decision to close the center at Ocean Beach came as a result of insufficient enrollment. The attendance of 25 children was required to maintain the center. As a result, the Ocean Beach and Pacific Beach Child Care centers were consolidated at the Barnard School which is midway between the two communities.

Address on "Our Allies" Heard By Literature Group

At the meeting of the Literature group of the Woman's club Monday evening, Mrs. Lewis Zill of San Diego, chairman of international relations of the women's clubs of California, spoke on "Our Allies." She gave a comprehensive picture of Russia, India and China and of the Japanese influence in India, and recommended Edgar Snow's book, "People on Our Side," as a help in understanding our Allies.

Presiding at the business session, Mrs. Paul Farrar, the chairman, announced that the group will arrange the program for the Woman's club for the meeting of Oct. 11, at which Mrs. Robert Campbell will be the speaker.

Hostesses for the refreshments served Monday evening were Mrs. Dean Marshall and Mrs. F. C. Barks.

MRS. GRACE C. HUNTER DIES SUDDENLY MONDAY AT HER HOME HERE

Mrs. Grace Caroline Hunter died suddenly of a heart attack Monday at her home, 5077 Santa Monica Ave., and private funeral services were held for her Thursday. Cremation followed in Greenwood cemetery.

She was born Aug. 14, 1876 in Michigan and was married in Illinois to Frank W. Hunter, who preceded her in death 18 years ago. Two daughters are bereaved, Mrs. James Griffith of Mission Valley and Mrs. Jeanne Hudgens of Santa Monica. Also bereft are a son, Elliott T. Hunter, and six grandchildren. Mrs. Hunter was a member of the Ocean Beach Christian Science church.

She had lived in San Diego 29 years and the past seven years in Ocean Beach.

MRS. C. W. EARLY GOES TO LOS ANGELES FOR REST

Mrs. C. W. Early, president of the Ocean Beach Woman's club, left Wednesday for Los Angeles for rest and convalescence from her recent illness. She states that she will be under the care of a trained nurse in Los Angeles, who happens to be a former Tucson, Ariz. friend of hers.

The talk will be preceeded by the regular monthly business session, which will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the parish hall, announces Mrs. W. G. Collins, the publicity chairman.

Auxiliary Holds First Meeting of New Fiscal Year

Ladies Auxiliary of Clyde A. Wright Post of the American Legion held their first meeting of the new fiscal year at the Woman's clubhouse Thursday evening, last week with the new officers in charge. Mrs. Anna Neujahr was in the chair. At the business session, she announced her committee chairmen for the new year, their names to be announced later, reports Mrs. Veda Moss, secretary.

Welcome to all prospective members will be accorded, announces Mrs. Moss. All women, wives or daughters of servicemen of World War II as well as World War I are eligible for membership, she says, and she will be glad to give any further desired information to those interested, either at her store on Newport Ave. or by calling her on phone B-6747.

GEO. W. LEMMON, FATHER OF MRS. MARC STRAUSS, DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Mr. and Mrs. Marc Strauss were called to Los Angeles Friday by the death of the latter's father, George W. Lemmon, 60, of that city. He died Thursday in St. Joseph's hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for five months. Funeral services for him were held in the Wee Kirk O' the Heather chapel in Forest Lawn cemetery, where burial was made.

Mr. Lemmon was a native of West Virginia.

Besides the widow and Mrs. Strauss, another daughter, Mrs. R. B. Robertson of North Hollywood, survives.

The widow returned here with Mr. and Mrs. Strauss Monday and will make her home with them for the time being.

P. T. A. To Put On Drive Next Week For New Members

(By Mrs. Ralph Follick)

The Ocean Beach Parent-Teacher association is joining with the San Diego Congress of Parents and Teachers in a drive for membership during the week of October first. This week has been declared P. T. A. week by Mayor Harley Knox and all parents and persons interested in schools and the welfare of children are cordially invited to join their local Parent-Teacher association. Fathers too are reminded that they are welcomed as members and that special evening meetings will be held so they can attend.

Membership fees are low and all funds collected go to serve a good cause. Some money stays in the local unit, some goes to the district and the rest to the state and national units. Milk fund, juvenile protection, recreation projects, health programs and tuberculosis control are only a few of the many worthwhile programs financed by the Parents and Teachers association. Where else would you spend your nickels and dimes so wisely—be an understanding parent—join the Parent-Teacher association?

Meetings are held monthly for nine months of the year. The Ocean Beach Parent-Teacher association meets the second Tuesday of each month in the Ocean Beach school auditorium. The first meeting of this season will be held Tuesday, October 9. Mrs. Alvin Rowe will speak on "Parents Do Care" and Miss Margaret Van Voorhees on "Planning Games for Entertainment." "Mark the date on your calendar—plan to attend—the P. T. A. needs you. Join now and enjoy a year with one of the most active groups in your community—the Ocean Beach Parent-Teacher association," urges Mrs. E. F. Olson, president of the local unit.

VILLAGE SCHOOL OF ART HAS STARTED EVENING CLASSES THIS WEEK

The Village School of Art of Ocean Beach has this week started evening portrait classes for the benefit of those who cannot take this work during the day. These classes are in session Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday each week from 7 to 10, reports Director Orren Louden.

GIRL SCOUTS PRACTICE FOR COURT OF AWARDS TO BE HELD OCT. 23

Eleven Girl Scouts of Troop 120 met Tuesday after school at Wallace Hall and practiced for a court of awards which will be held on Oct. 23. Mrs. George Hart, adult leader, was in charge of the meeting.

The girls also started work on Child Care badges, dramatized the Girl Scout laws and organized into three patrols, with Helen Louise Haywood, Sally Bonham and Carol Smith as patrol leaders.
